OUR LONDON CABLE.

MARKET'S DEBT INCREASED

The Bank of England Completely Controls the Situation, but There Is Little Justification for the Grumbling at It—German and Russian Markets in a Bad Condition.

Cable Correspondence.

Copyright, 1900, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 29.—Our money market is held so tight and nice by the Bank of England that it cannot even wriggle. Discount rates consequently remained most unpicturesquely rigid during the whole of the week just ended at 4 to 4⅛ per cent. Loan money varied somewhat, because the Stock Exchange settlement created additional demands of a moderate sort, but usually seven-day advances could be obtained in the discount market at 3¾ per cent., and call money roamed about between this figure and 5 per cent. Money to the mid-May settlement was likewise 5 per cent. as the minimum.

In these circumstances the Bank of England continues to do a considerable share of the current discount business, and the market has increased its indebtedness, notwithstanding the reflux of coin and notes from circulation. Exasperation continues over this helplessness, and the wrath takes the shape of accusing the Bank of remissness over gold supplies. Instead of putting up its prices for American eagles and other coins, it lowered them, and therefore lost the chance of securing considerable parcels available some weeks back. Now the bullion market is bare and the competition of other credit centres increasing for whatever supply is available, while the Bank sits calmly by and squeezes handsome profits from the generally impoverished condition of our credit institutions.

I summarize these complaints, but by no means indorse them, for the grumblers forget the position of rival money markets abroad, which is such that had the Bank of England begun to bid for gold all of them must in self-defense have raised their rates against us. The German and Russian markets particularly are in a ticklish condition. In appearance Berlin is not pressed for money, open market discount rates having slightly declined there last week, as likewise at other German centres. But this ease is illusory, as one small fact indicates. Sugar production and export is one of Germany's most important industries and branches of commerce. In Magdeburg, the centre of this trade, sugar bills cannot be discounted under 6 per cent., and advances on sugar are charged 8 per cent.

Dip below the surface at any point, and it will be found that nothing can be considered to come within the scope of the fine discount rates telegraphed from abroad except finance bills pure and simple, such as banks create for the purpose of lending each other assistance, often at the expense of the London market, where one-legged bills of this sort are still too plentiful.

As for Russia, does not M. Witte's action in calling the St. Petersburg bankers together for the purpose of denying to them officially the stories about the Boer sympathies of the Czar reveal plainly enough under what propped-up conditions credit there exists? Only a few months ago M. Witte organized a market-propping sort of trust for the purpose of keeping up the price of stocks, and it is now staring a heavy loss in the face, thanks to the purchases of shares of companies started with preposterously large capitals. Liquidation of the rotten gaseous fringe of Russian industrial development is therefore inevitable, and I am not confident that we can draw much or any gold from the Imperial Bank save at the risk of a crash at St. Petersburg.

Given such conditions, what better course could the Bank of England pursue than to act so as to render its rate effective without making any sudden pull upon other markets? Its managers know well enough that we must have a 6 per cent. bank rate again later in the year, and work now with the avowed object of postponing the advance as long as possible. Doubtless enterprise is gagged meanwhile, and the public is shy of subscribing to any new security, however good, but this cannot be helped, and is inevitable in any event so long as our resources are all ear-marked for the use of the Government.

The East Indian Railway Company offered £1,000,000 of 3 per cent. debentures last Friday at 95, or £3 lower than the lowest price ever asked before, and by dint of persuasion got the amount taken at an average of about £6 over the minimum. Home municipalities cannot do even this, and as for new industrial commercial ventures, they just need not try. A shipping combine with a capital of nearly £5,000,000 had to be withdrawn last week, after being fully underwritten.

This week comes the 10 per cent. installment on the "Khaki" loan, and the market has no money with which to pay it. In last Thursday's Bank return the market looked richer by £2,500,000, but that is really Government money to a great extent, representing the portion of the loan paid up in full by small allottees, and not yet handed over to the Treasury.

The supreme question, therefore, coming will be, Can New York spare us gold, not driblets of metal, but millions of it? We are not interested in its shipments to Paris, but want to know if it is coming here. We would almost buy your railroad stocks blind, badly though confidence has been shaken by recent events in your industrial market, could you assure us that we shall have all the gold we require. Until we see it coming over freely, count not on any support of a solid character for your markets from ours.

On one or two days last week the market for outside securities showed considerable activity, but, as a whole, the trading for the week was not heavy. Considerable irregularity appeared in prices, but it was a fact worthy of note that the most strength was coincident with the greatest activity. There was, in some quarters of the market, a decided disposition to liquidate, and not a few of the net changes for the week were on the side of declines. In a number of issues, however, improvement in price appeared and not only in actual advances but also in the decided firmness which these stocks showed. There was no special movement in any particular section of the market, all classes of securities sharing in the irregularity that was the feature of the week's trading. Actual news had little effect on the market and principal among the factors influencing curb trading during the week was the course of the Stock Exchange market. In nearly every case where news of any importance was had, it was of a favorable character; and certainly nothing came to hand during the week to lead to any apprehension as to the immediate future.

At the close of the week there seemed to be more confidence among those interested in the outside market and several issues that were under considerable pressure at the beginning of the week showed improvement at the close. In some of the specialties there was renewed evidence of inside buying and some pools working in the outside market considerably advanced stocks in which they were particularly interested. But of much more interest than these movements was the firmness shown by a number of substantial issues that were well taken throughout the week and succeeded in maintaining the prices current for them at the close of this precious week notwithstanding the irregularity that appeared in the general list.

Among the industrial stocks were one or two that showed weakness on unfavorable rumors in regard to the declaration of expected dividends, but in actual developments there was little or nothing to warrant the declines which occurred on this account. From nearly every source come reports of satisfactory profits, and as far as can be seen there is no reason to qualify the expectations of earning which were given attention when a few weeks ago the market showed so much strength. These profits remain facts and they must have their influence in due course, notwithstanding any unfounded apprehension that may show at the moment.

Amalgamated Copper, the most prominent of the copper stocks traded in on the curb, began the week by a sharp decline which drove the stock to a point below the low figure recorded at the close of the previous week, but this was soon followed by an even more sharp recovery. The stock easily got back from 91 to 93, and on the advance it was found that very little stock came out, the purchases made on the decline having cleared the market of the stock that was forced for sale. It was viewed with satisfaction that the price advanced so much more easily than it had declined. But at the close of the week the stock was again weak and it closed with a net loss of over a point. Union Copper was another issue of this group that attracted considerable attention. It was fairly active throughout the week and advanced quite steadily. It sold as high as 8 and retained nearly all of this advance to the close of the week. The stock was much more active than it had been at any time recently. It is said that developments of importance in the affairs of the company are likely to occur at the annual meeting to be held May 10. The amount of ore shipped by the company at present is larger, it is said, than at any time in the past, and the returns on these shipments are said to be satisfactory. Other copper stocks were not much in evidence and no net changes of importance occurred in them. Arizona Lead was fairly active and advanced substantially.

Of the industrial stocks one of the most prominent was Distilling of America, which drew considerable attention by reason of the weakness which it showed, notwithstanding the absence of any unfavorable news in regard to the stock. Both the common and the preferred stock ended the week substantially lower than on the previous Saturday and declines were recorded on few transactions. The only apparent reason for the decline was the fact that there was further delay in completing the report expected from the committee appointed some months ago to investigate the affairs of the company and report to the stockholders. It is officially stated that the report will be ready soon, but it has not yet been learned on just what day it may be expected. Most of the industrial stocks suffered more or less during the week, but very few of them showed any great activity. Some stocks, among them Otis Elevator common, ended the week with a substantial advance, while some others remained steady at the previous week's prices.

General Carriage came again into prominence by reason of renewed inside buying accompanied by a sharp advance. The stock sold as high as 13 and after reacting a point closed at 12 bid, a net gain for the week of 4 points.

Electro-Pneumatic made a net gain of 2 points, closing for the week at 3⅝ bid, after selling as high as 3⅞. This stock was favorably affected by the announcement late in the week that a meeting of the stockholders had been called for May 11 and that certain steps looking to the financial rehabilitation of the company had been taken by the directors. It was said further that interests prominently connected with street railway enterprises had secured control of the property.

Following are the latest quotations for securities not listed or inactive on the Stock Exchange. These quotations are compiled from reports made to THE NEW YORK TIMES by many of the most active and reputable commission brokers. Information is solicited from all persons interested. PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Irregularity attended local movements to-day. Electric Company of America was liquidated down to 10⅝ on a revival of the oft repeated rumor that a call might be expected any time. This is the condition of all the assessable stocks. Welsbach Light lost a point of its gain of yesterday. Lehigh Valley dropped back ½, and Union Traction ¼. Even Pennsylvania, with its March net gain of almost $600,000, and its three months' net increase of almost $3,000,000, or about 2 per cent. more on its increased capitalization, also yielded. The one strong feature was Lehigh Coal and Navigation, for which 50¾ was bid at the close. Asphalt issues were steady. So was Western New York and Pennsylvania, which has a fixed market at 8⅝. Many stocks were not quoted because holders will not sell at the current level.
